INTERMAT Paris: a look forward to the 2021 show!

A team mobilised to prepare the event for innovation and recovery

During this quite unprecedented period, everyone in the INTERMAT team remains mobilised to prepare the forthcoming edition of the show in Paris, set to open six months from now. Exhibitors and visitors will, even more than before, need to reconnect with others, share their innovations and take advantage of new business opportunities. Additionally, this will all happen at a three-yearly event that will feature an array of new developments in the very heart of a construction and infrastructure industry in which much has changed since the 2018 edition.

A 2021 vintage set to accelerate new technology, in step with the times

At a time when the ecological and digital transformation offers huge development opportunities to the entire industry, the crisis has also enabled the sector's companies to reinforce the use of digital solutions but also think about new ways of organising work. In this respect, the common theme for the 2021 show, accelerating innovation, takes on greater significance in its propensity to allow construction firms to gain in efficiency and show off their appeal and transformation capabilities. As such, the creation of a new Hub dedicated to New Technologies has proven to be a smart move since it is designed to highlight, in the middle of the exhibition, the latest developments in the sector and the worksite of the future.

A set of “Health and safety guidelines” to take part in the show in safety and with peace of mind

To enable its exhibitions to deliver on their promise, COMEXPOSIUM, working in concert with many sector stakeholders, has contributed to the definition of a set of “health and safety guidelines” for application in the event management sector.

The planned health and safety measures observe all the decisions and recommendations made by the French government to date. INTERMAT will remain attentive to how the situation evolves in France and around the world, and will adapt these measures as necessary to thus enable the exhibitors and visitors to take part in the show in total safety and with peace of mind. These measures range from the requirement to wear a face mask and the in-depth cleaning of air filters to social distancing and the provision of hand sanitizer (see attached infographic).

It should also be recalled that INTERMAT 2021, held from 19 to 24 April, is part of the powerful dynamic of a new global showcase for innovation in construction: Paris Construction Week. This federating occasion to reinforce the momentum of innovation and projects of players working in construction and communities will bring together four complementary events: INTERMAT and World of Concrete Europe, BIM World and Solutions Bas Carbone: a joint initiative by the organisers of these shows.

Comexposium is one of the world’s leading event organizers. Globally, it hosts 135 B2B and B2B2C events across many different sectors, significantly in agriculture, construction, fashion, food, health, leisure, real estate, retail, security, students, tourism, and works council. At events, in over 30 countries, Comexposium welcomes more than 3,5 million visitors and 48,000 exhibitors annually. Headquartered in France, Comexposium’s employees and sales network operate in 22 countries. Comexposium aims to be seen as the place to be, building bridges between people and business.
